Jewel Tea has started work on an addition. This is the west wall, which will be torn down and moved twenty feet to the new wall. Foundation of the new wall shows on the right.

Start Work on Addition

The Jewel Tea store has started work on an addition to its building on Lake St. John Keyser, manager of the local Jewel, says 20 feet will be added to the west side of the building, and 20 feet to the back, or south end. The inside layout of the store when it's completed has not been definitely decided.

The expansion will include a major overhaul. The present west and south walls will be removed.

Parking area will also be expanded on the south. The new parking area will accommodate about 25 cars. Whether or not the new parking area will have access to Spafford St. has not been decided.

March 1 is the target date for completion of the work on the building, weather permitting.

Children's Play At PM&L Theatre

PM&L is bringing a special treat to children of all ages this coming Saturday. "The Land of the Dragon" will be presented by Kenosha Little Theatre, Inc., at the PM&L Theatre, Antioch, at 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. on Saturday, December 18.

"The Land of the Dragon" by Madge Miller, is an oriental fantasy, a play full of spectacle and suspense, color and laughter. There are heroes—Road Wanderer who can speak to the animals and birds and has a real dragon for a pet. And villains—the ambitious Precious Harp determined to use any means to steal the throne from the lovely Princess Jade Pure. Will Jade Pure escape from the imprisonment Precious Harp has inflicted upon her?

Will the 24th cousin, who is really a farmer, really win the Princess' hand and save her throne? Which one of the three dragons is the real dragon?

Jade Pure will be portrayed by Elizabeth Garren. Thomas Smith has the part of the Road Wanderer, and Joan Duffin plays Precious Harp. The production is directed by resident director Robert Zentis.

The costumes for the play were designed by the director. Many are of exquisite loveliness and some are clever in their construction, as in the case of the three dragons.

Helen Lilley, Kenosha News staff reporter stated, "I attended the dress rehearsal of Kenosha Little Theatre's 'The Land of the Dragon,' a play especially for young people and, in spite of diligent prodding to remember I was there to observe, became so enthralled at times that I completely forgot I was too old for this sort of thing."

Tickets may be obtained by calling Vivian Maplethorpe at 395-3613, or at the box office.

Host A Serviceman On Christmas Day

Every year sailors and Marines from the Great Lakes Naval Training Center who are unable to go to their own home for Christmas, spend Christmas Day with a local family.

Once again, personnel in the community who would like to invite one or more of these men and women into their home for the day, will be given an opportunity to do so.

Lieutenant J. M. Collins (Chaplain Corps), U. S. Navy, is compiling a list of names of military personnel who would be happy to accept an invitation.

It would be appreciated if persons planning to extend an invitation would do so by Dec. 21. Invitations are being accepted by Chaplain Collins who may be contacted by calling 688-4664.

Survey Town As Possible Industry Site

Representatives of the Soo Line Railroad and Antioch village officials met Monday to discuss the potential industrial growth of Antioch.

The Soo Line Railroad, in an effort to boost rail freight shipments, has appointed a three-man committee to survey towns to determine the availability of sites for businesses looking for a home. With the information they gather as to industrial sites, price of land, desirability of the town, etc., they are in a position to give such information to industries interested in locating in the area.

The Soo Line, of course, hopes to gain more freight customers by helping them to locate near the rail lines.

The growth of rail shipments in Antioch in recent years, particularly from Frostee Sno and Quaker Industries, was one reason for the Soo Line committee to survey Antioch.

The three Soo Line representatives, Mayor Ray Toft, David Nissen, chairman of the Industrial Development committee of the Village Board, a representative of Quaker Industries and Les Sorensen, local Soo Line agent, toured possible sites of new industry in Antioch and discussed possibilities. Mayor Ray Toft said he assured the committee that village officials would be as cooperative as possible in establishing new industries.

Names of owners of property suitable for industrial development, were given to the railroad representatives for contacting.

Railroad officials asked to have copies of the new zoning map of Antioch mailed to them, when the maps are completed.

Mayor Toft also reports that a hearing on the installation of automatic warning lights at the Soo Line crossing on Ida Ave. is scheduled in the near future.

Antioch Adventurers Welcome New Members

The Antioch Adventurers 4-H girls met December 6 at Emmons Grade School. Pins were presented to new members Doris Meuter, Mary Ellen Sullivan, Silvia Meuter, Debbie Vojtech, Pam Edwards, Sharon Hall, Heidi Petty, Barbara Dodd, Holly Lang, and Connie Green.

A film on poison prevention was shown.

The Adventurers met again on December 10 to work on favors for hospitalized children. They made place mats, nut cups and pins to wear. The favors will be sent to the children at Zion Benton Hospital.

Schools May Pool Federal Funds For Mutual Benefit

Representatives of several grade schools in the area met at the Antioch High School last Thursday to investigate the possibility of "pooling" Federal funds available to them under the Elementary Secondary School Act of 1965.

The funds received would be used to enlarge the school programs for the economically or culturally deprived child.

Guidelines for applying the Federal funds have been laid out by Superintendent A. L. Dittman, and have changed frequently. The government, he said, has often been more receptive to larger projects, where they might withhold approval of funds for a project developed by one small school.

A total of $40,000 should be available to the eight schools represented at the meeting—Antioch High School, Millburn, Grass Lake, Lake Villa, B. J. Hooper, Emmons, Oakland and Antioch Grade.

Two projects were discussed at the Thursday night meeting, cooperation of the schools in a remedial reading program and guidance and counseling.

A possible approach to a cooperative reading program, Dittman said, would be for the schools to pool funds to hire a remedial reading instructor. In addition to working with the children, he would advise the teachers in a program and be available for consultation.

A committee was appointed to pursue the subject. The committee, with Warren Polley as chairman, met Monday night at Oakland School. Polley has been appointed by the high school board to study Federal Aid programs for the High School.

Clifton Houghton, Oakland School principal, John Schockmel, Grass Lake Principal, and Melvin Colbert, superintendent of Lake Villa Grade Schools, are the remaining members of the committee.

The committee members agreed to outline for each school board the opportunities for cooperation under the Education Act, and to seek board approval of the concerted action. They also adopted a resolution suggesting that a delegate be appointed in each school system to work on the program and to make application for the Federal funds. School boards will be asked to approve a delegate.

The delegates and the committee will develop projects, try to decide how much they will cost and try to hire expert instructors. Each school will contribute a share of the cost from Federal funds available to them.

None of the schools represented had yet applied for the Federal funds, partly because of the uncertainty as to requirements. The deadline for applying for funds to be used in the second semester of this school year is January 16. Each school represented at the meeting will ask school board approval of the cooperative project at the December meeting of the board.

Mr. Dittman pointed out that this is the first time schools in this area have cooperated in a project of depth.

Christmas Party For Children of AGS

Santa Claus will take some time out from his busy schedule to greet the children of Antioch Grade School at the Christmas party on Friday afternoon, Dec. 17.

The party will start at 1:15 p.m. The program will be provided by children from kindergarten through the fourth grade.

The Merit Commission was appointed under a 1965 law passed by the last legislature and is the first for this county. Those appointed were John Hayes, Jr., 445 Ash St., a Chicago Tribune reporter in Lake County; William Hoyerman, Deerfield, president of the General Body Co., Chicago, and a secretary of the Lake County Crime Commission, and William Bicket, Zion, president of Bicket Enterprises.

The commission will have the task of making up a set of rules and procedures for the merit system. Stanley Schabowicz, a member of Sheriff Larson's staff, has reportedly been working on such a set of rules to present to the commission. The County Board of Supervisors will have to approve the rules.

Sheriff Larson has long declared himself in favor of the merit system and backed the bill in the legislature.

The new state law does not make the establishment of a merit system mandatory, but provides for a referendum on the matter if the County Board fails to create a commission.

No Excuse For Ignorance Of The Law

The office of Secretary of State Paul Rowell has compiled an excellent little 18-page booklet which contains all the changes and or additions to laws made by the last State Legislature relating to motor vehicles.

A thorough knowledge of the laws governing traffic can help to avoid accidents. It can also save you money in fines.

The recent session of the legislature spelled out the laws governing passing a vehicle on the right. This is an area where a good many drivers seem to have conflicting ideas of what's legal.

The law says that the driver of a vehicle may overtake and pass on the right of another vehicle only under the following conditions: when the vehicle overtaken is making or about to make a left turn; upon a street or highway with unobstructed pavement not occupied by parked vehicles, of sufficient width for 2 or more lines of moving vehicles in each direction; on a one-way street, or on any roadway on which traffic is restricted to one direction of movement, where the roadway is free from obstruction and wide enough for 2 or more vehicles.

The amendment further provides that the driver of a vehicle may pass another vehicle on the right only when such movement can be made safely; and under no circumstances can pass by driving off the pavement or the main-traveled portion of the roadway.

There are a good many amendments to laws governing the operation of motor vehicles contained in the little booklet, and everyone who drives would do well to study it carefully. Ignorance of the law is no excuse, and there's little excuse for ignorance when the Secretary of State has made the knowledge so readily available.

High Cost Of Government

Who got the biggest pay raises from 1955-63? Not, as you might think, steel workers or factory help.

Government employees enjoyed pay raises totalling 48% in the eight-year period, according to figures compiled by the Taxpayer's Federation of Illinois. In the same period, the pay of workers in private industry went up 34 per cent.

The average yearly wage of the Federal civilian worker in 1963 was $6,812; the State or local government employee received $5,197, and the private industry worker $5,181.

Statistics further show that about one out of every 19 persons is a public employee. With each government service that's added, the number of public employees rises.

"Padding" of payrolls, particularly in large cities, often escapes detection for some time. Politicians hand out patronage jobs to friends who helped them to get elected. The friend may spend few hours on the job or be completely untrained and inadequate.

Newspapers render a real service in "nosing out" many of these "extra" jobs. With the rising cost of government, there must be a continuous effort to weed out waste and inefficiency.

Courthouse Notebook

BY LOU DURKIN

There will be egg on the faces of most of the political pundits and political experts in Illinois if Charles Percy, 1964 GOP candidate for Governor, decides to sit out the 1966 campaign for U. S. Senator.

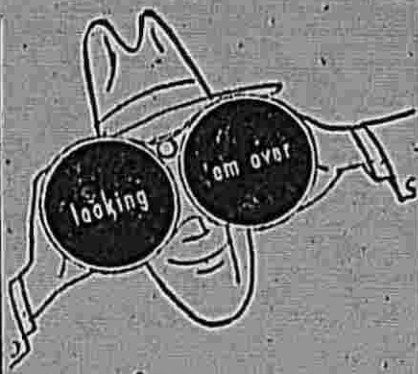

Virtually every observer of the political scene expects Percy to carry the Republican colors in the effort to unseat silver thatched Sen. Paul H. Douglas, the veteran Democratic solon.

Percy, of course, has been playing it coy, but he is in the position now of becoming a candidate or leaving the impression that Sen. Douglas is unbeatable, a situation that would make the GOP candidacy less than attractive for any other aspirant. The youthful politico is expected to make an announcement of his plans in the near future, but because of the speculation which has already been taking place regarding his candidacy a mere statement that he will be a candidate for U. S. Senator will be anti-climatic.

Statements of some other Republican leaders around the state have virtually pushed Percy into the race, and particularly in the cases of State Treasurer William Scott and Cook County Sheriff Richard Ogilvie, the suspicion persists that a defeat in 19 would find few tears shed in Percy's behalf.

State Representative William Hartnett (D-Grayslake) is getting support in strange areas for his proposal to "reapportion" the county Boards of Supervisors. The Illinois Association of Taxpayers came out in favor recently of legislation to reduce the number of board members and Lake County's only daily paper also finds merit in a nine member board with representation based on arbitrary lines that would probably change after each census.

'Tis the season to be jolly. That is you can relax and be jolly if you have your Christmas shopping all done, the house polished and the Christmas decorations in place. There's probably someone somewhere who has attained this enviable degree of perfection, but I haven't met her—or him.

If you're like the rest of us, join the crowd, and I do mean crowd. Wouldn't it be wonderful if days were 48 hours long, just for a couple of weeks now? Except for the children—the days seem 48 hours long to the impatient kids, now.

If you're having trouble deciding on a gift for someone, here's a suggestion from State Police Superintendent William H. Morris—buy seat belts for someone. You may save a life.

BROKEN RECORDS: We are breaking records all over the place with our unseasonable weather. Dec. 12 was formerly the latest date for the first snowfall.

Winter starts officially on Tuesday, December 21. It's also the shortest day of the year, as far as hours of daylight is concerned.

December 21 is also the day when Venus is the most brilliant, in case you're interested in star-gazing. Venus is the brightest star in the sky at this time of year, appearing in the southwest horizon.

It looks as though people are finally getting tired of the trend toward more and more indiscriminate Christmas gift giving and card-sending and are doing something about it. Some daring companies are informing all and sundry that there will be no more gifts to companies who favor them with business—they're giving the money to charity instead.

One local group, the Countryside Hospital Women's Auxiliary are skipping the grab bag bit at their Christmas party and giving the money to the Hospital Fund. And now comes word that at least one office group has turned thumbs-down on card sending and gift exchanging among fellow employees in favor of a collection for the poor.

More power to 'em. Gifts given from a sense of duty mean little to the receiver. And a flood of Christmas cards from people who have no real interest in you are meaningless to both the sender and receiver.

It is reasonable to wonder if the same zeal would be applied if most downstate county boards were predominantly Democratic in makeup.

The Taxpayer Federation professes to see more economy in a full-time nine member board with a professional administrative officer conducting the affairs of the county.

The Waukegan News-Sun also uses economy as its argument but there is a feeling that the present membership and leadership of the Lake County Board forms the real basis for its position.

It is difficult to see where any great savings in salaries will be effected by having nine full-time commissioners who will probably draw $10,000 a year plus a $25,000 a year administrator, particularly since you still have your township supervisors drawing their annual salaries as township officials.

There is one change we could applaud, however. That would be the election of county board members at the same election as other county officials with the candidates running on party labels after a June primary.

Of course, this would eliminate control of the township and county board representation from the small groups of entrenched manipulators who prefer small, off-elections because fewer people vote in them.

The death of Henning Johnson, long-time Deep Lake innkeeper last week, marked the virtual end of an era.

A confidant of political figures for generations, Henning was one of the few remaining publicans who could exert a considerable influence in elections.

Henning operated Johnson's Deep Lake Resort for two score and more years and it was a favorite spa during prohibition and in more sedate years.

We won't see his kind again and future generations will be the poorer because of the color he and his contemporaries brought to the local scene.

What a colorful and exciting history of Lake County he could have written and what stories of the past his death evoked.

ALONG THE WAY with Annie Mae

Hurry up, you last minute shoppers, only 8 days until Christmas. . . . By the way, Santa is answering all phone calls and writing letters, his number is 395-3636. . . . Have you noticed all the teenagers working this year to earn their own Christmas money? The lovely decorations hanging across the streets would be beautiful all through the business district instead of just the outskirts.

At the Lions Christmas party Monday night the festive fun centered around the gift giving. Jack Fields was presented with the tires to his car, which he had parked outside about a half hour before. Dr. Bobzien was given a star, but not a Christmas star. A cement block was put under one of the Lions members' car but the prank was hardly appreciated.

Those loyal Bear fans sat all Sunday afternoon in the pouring rain to watch them play the San Francisco 49ers. Soaked but entertained were Len Roblin, Dick Daniels, Red Murrie, Jim McMillen, Janet Brook, Joan and Ted Larson, and Toby Tobiesky.

Rumors again. . . . Father Bessette is a cracker-jack cribbage player.

LOST IN A FOG: Seems Judy Linder waited four hours at O'Hare airport last Friday while Howard sat patiently at Mitchell Field in Milwaukee. Ever heard of that new invention, the telephone?

Here's to a White Christmas.

By tradition, our flag is flown 24 hours a day at the grave of Francis Scott Key in Mount Olive cemetery, Frederick, Md., the World War I memorial, Worcester, Mass., the civilian cemetery, Deadwood, S. Dak., marine monument, Quantico, Va., Little Bighorn battlefield in Montana, Mount Stover, Col., Pike's Peak, in Colorado, and Plaza Taos, N. M., since 1861 by legend.

When either house of Congress is in session at night, our flag flies until recess. There are no laws with any teeth in them which prohibit the United States flag from being flown at any time, provided the flag is treated with respect and dignity.

We should adhere to public law 829 (approved Dec. 22, 1942) which codifies rules and customs pertaining to the display and use of the flag and states: "It is a universal custom to display the flag only from sunrise to sunset on buildings and on stationary flagstaffs, in the open. However, the flag may be displayed at night upon special occasions when it is desired to produce a patriotic effect."

It would be wise if our fraternal, civic, veteran and religious groups at this time of world strife would publicly stress the need for more patriotism—in the Antioch area. Do not forget that our boys cannot do the job alone without some real moral support at home.

Letters to the Editor

Antioch News,
Dear Editor:

Flying Our Flag at Night

From time to time in communities when an outstanding citizen passes away and from the Mayor of the community to other high officials, even some veteran groups, the question arises as to how to fly the American Flag of the United States, especially at night, in respect to the passing of an important citizen.

The above question should not bother the average citizen, especially those living in Antioch, as for the business people and a number of the residents, their flag patriotism has flown out the window sometime ago, it is just too much bother to fly the flag on holidays and other occasions, but if the flag was colored green and resembled money, Oh boy! what a scramble to be the first on the street.

For authority to fly the flag at night is generally granted by Presidential proclamation or an act of Congress. The decision to fly the flag 24 hours a day at Lexington, Mass., at the site of the first confrontation in the Revolutionary war was an inspired patriotic act of Congress.

Our flag does not fly 24 hours a day at the White House. By presidential proclamation it is flown 24 hours a day at Flag House square, Baltimore, Md., Fort Mifflin, Baltimore, Md., the east necessity to assert himself—to cut himself adrift from parental supervision. Poppa Board will need to decide, as many another poppa, if he will "subsidize" this independent spirit.

Sonny will have to pay rent somewhere (with Poppa's money); or he will pay it to Poppa, or someone of his own choosing outside the family? Since Sonny's been born he's spent about $65,000 of Poppa's money for rent already—and has requested another $9,000 for the coming year.

Will Poppa give Sonny the $9,000 to pay an outsider, and be short that $9,000 to boot on his mortgage? Can Poppa afford $18,000 to foster Sonny's "subsidized independence"? And, what inarnation is Poppa going to to with the 7th floor—"subsidize" his Mental Health (teenager and give it to him)?

My, my, what problems we parents do have with our overindulged children in this affluent society! We go in debt to our ears to provide luxuries for them; then they leave us on the verge of bankruptcy, without a "thank you" or an offer of help!

Dear Editor:

Will someone please explain all of this doubletalk to me?

For six months now I have been hearing and reading through the news media that first China and Russia are about to split; the next week China is remonstrating the United States about something we said to Russia, the week after that Russia is backing China on the Vietnam situation.

I cannot see where there is any difference between the two, they are both aiming for one objective and that is to Communize the World, the end result being total Chaos, Tyranny, Slavery and Starvation.

Is one of the two countries any better than the other?

Sincerely,

Please remember—that the Godless United Nations is not the last best hope for peace on earth—Christianity is.

Antioch News:
Throughout the world, Christmas is a time for rejoicing and renewed hope, as men are inspired anew with the universal message of peace and good will. Today, as almost 2000 years ago when the joyous news was first proclaimed, Christmas expresses the yearning of men everywhere for Peace.

for Freedom, for Individual Dignity.

At this Christmas, 1965, American soldiers scattered around this troubled world pause to remember the birth of another Soldier of long ago, the world's Prince of Peace.

This Soldier fought not with rockets, missiles or guns. Love, good will, and understanding were His weapons. He put on the armor of God and conquered a world by winning the hearts of men.

He replaced despair with hope, loved even His enemies and upheld the dignity of each human being. Yet, He remained firm in His convictions and steadfast in His purpose, even in the face of death.

He did not make us a gift of everlasting Peace, but rather, established Peace and Good Will toward men as the noblest aim of mankind.

And, throughout the ages, man has found comfort in His example. His unconquerable Spirit inspired our cold and ragged soldiers as they prepared for battle at Trenton on that fateful Christmas Eve in 1776. His indomitable Will encouraged and strengthened our soldiers at Chipilly Ridge, in the islands of the South Pacific, and as they stemmed the Chinese offensive in Korea.

Is it not meet then, that the thoughts of our soldiers return now to that manger in Bethlehem? There is the origin of their strength, inspiration, and hope—where the angelic voices resounded over the Judean hills on that First Christmas morning: "Glory to God in the highest—and on earth, PEACE."

Wherever our soldiers are serving along the frontiers of Freedom, they may be proud in knowing that their achievements are contributing to the preservation of Freedom. Our nation and free men in every corner of the world look upon their selfless service with a deep sense of gratitude and pride. We extend our best wishes to the military and civilian and to families, a Most Blessed Christmas.

Get-Acquainted Month At AGHS

The Tom-Tom, the Antioch High School paper, has initiated a Get-Acquainted Month.

The next two issues of the Tom-Tom will carry the names of parents of students, one in each ad. Either parent may then call on the merchant in whose advertisement his name appears and will receive two free tickets to any school-sponsored activity, such as basketball games, school plays, etc.

The names of students will be drawn from the school body, one for each advertiser in the school paper. The parents of these students will be the winners of the free tickets.

The Tom-Tom staff hopes this will encourage parents to get better-acquainted with the school. Students are urged to read the ads carefully and encourage their parents to take advantage of this opportunity.

Program To Give

Information On Dentistry Career

A carefully selected group of 100 dentists in Illinois will soon be contacted to participate in a unique educational program to help meet the dental health needs of the State.

Under the program suggested by a steering committee of faculty and alumni of the University of Illinois College of Dentistry, approximately 100 dental alumni out of more than 2,000 in Illinois will be selected.

First, this "Committee of 100" will be asked to invite into their office for a brief period young men and women who have been accepted as Freshmen by the College of Dentistry. Thus, the students will have direct contact with clinical dentistry about which they may know very little. This will give them a final opportunity to examine the profession before starting their professional education.

Second, the committee members will be asked to serve as regional alumni representatives in their com-unities to answer questions from interested high school and college students and teachers about dental careers in general and the University of Illinois College of Dentistry in particular. A primary proposal of the steering committee was to set up a program to orient and inform the "Committee of 100" about the latest facts concerning the University's educational program and current information about the dental profession.

The Sunday School Christmas program at the Antioch Methodist church will be different from the programs of previous years.

Formerly, each class presented a portion of the program. This year, two groups, divided by age, will cooperate to present the program.

The Christmas program will start at 4 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 19, in Wesley Hall at the Methodist Church. ## CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force?" This is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be presented in Christian Science churches this Sunday.

A major theme will be the ultimate supremacy of the spiritual laws through which God's will and government of the universe is expressed. The Golden Text is from I Chronicles (16:31): "Let the heavens be glad, and let the earth rejoice; and let men say among the nations, The Lord reigneth."

In addition to selected passages from the Bible on this topic, there will be readings from the Christian Science textbook. Among them will be these lines: "Suns and planets teach grand lessons. The stars make night beautiful, and the leaflet turns naturally towards the light. In the order of Science, in which the Principle is above what it reflects, all is one grand concord" (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, p. 240).

Safety Council To Test Studded Snow Tires

Are the newly-developed snow tires containing metal studs as safe and efficient on winter road surfaces as some manufacturers claim?

Research to be undertaken by the National Safety Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards at Stevens Point, Wisconsin, this winter will seek answers to this question which is of vital concern to highway users and public officials.

Preliminary tests made by the committee last winter at Stevens Point indicate that cars equipped with these tires are safer on icy pavements than cars with regular snow tires, but reinforced tire chains afford still more safety, according to Professor E. A. Whitehurst, Director of the Tennessee Highway Research Program, and Chairman, Subcommittee on Testing for the NSC Committee on Winter Driving Hazards.

The research specialist, who is Research Professor of Engineering at the University of Tennessee, said the Council's tests showed the following average stopping distances on ice for a car traveling at 20 mph with new equipment:

Regular tires ..... 180 ft.
Snow tires ..... 107 ft.
Studded snow tires 110 ft.
Reinforced tire chains 70 ft.

"The tests also showed that new studded tires rank somewhere between tire chains and regular snow tires in starting ability on ice," Whitehurst said. He summarized the Council's traction test findings on ice by reporting that snow tires give 36 per cent improvement over regular tires, studded snow tires provide 136 per cent improvement, and reinforced tire chains offer 405 per cent improvement.

"Highway users should recognize that these tests were made with new equipment," Whitehurst said. "Limited data indicate that after 5,000 miles of wear, studded tires may lose as much as 50 per cent of their effectiveness. We hope to find out more about the influence of wear on tire efficiency during this winter's tests."

Whitehurst said the committee members are interested in reports by some agencies, including the Swedish National Road Research Institute, that studded tires may reduce the coefficients of friction on bare pavements, both wet and dry, by as much as 25 per cent.

"Since some of today's heavily-traveled pavements are already considered to be slippery when wet, it is obvious that any additional loss in traction because of the studs, particularly at high speeds, could lead to a most hazardous situation," Whitehurst said.

"In the meantime," Whitehurst added, "until some of these questions are answered, the Council continues to recommend regular snow tires for use during mild-to-medium snow and ice conditions, and advises that studded tires are more effective than regular tires on ice and that reinforced tire chains are best for severe snow and ice conditions.

"No matter what traction aid you employ," he concluded, "slower-than-normal speeds are an absolute must on slippery pavements."

SAFEGUARD YOUR HEALTH

A PUBLIC SERVICE OF THE ILLINOIS STATE MEDICAL SOCIETY
WHAT YOUR BLOOD PRESSURE REALLY MEANS

As part of your "physical" the doctor has placed that peculiar rubber cuff around your arm, inflated it, and told you that your blood pressure is 120 over 80.

If you're like many persons, you probably don't know what your doctor means by that "120 over 80." Nor, perhaps, just what "high" and "low" blood pressure is, and why blood pressure readings are necessary.

A blood pressure reading enables your doctor to study the dynamics of your heart and the elasticity of the blood vessels. The higher reading, called the systolic pressure, indicates the maximum pressure your heart exerts when it compresses (squeezes down). The lower reading, known as the diastolic pressure, indicates the minimum pressure your heart exerts when it is relaxed.

In a young man, the systolic pressure is approximately 120 and the diastolic pressure 80 (120/80). In a young woman, the reading is usually 115/80. However, by the time you reach age 60, your systolic pressure may rise about 20 points and the diastolic 7 — a reading considered fairly average at that age.

If your pressure differs somewhat from the above figures, it does not necessarily represent cause for alarm.

People who are overweight usually have a higher pressure (which is probably needed to circulate blood to their extra bulk) and thin people often have lower than normal pressure. In fact, there is so much variation within the range of good health that your systolic pressure would have to go well above 145 consistently before your pressure is classified "high" or well below 100 before classified "low."

If you have low blood pressure, don't worry. Unless the pressure is so low that your blood is not being circulated sufficiently, it usually does not indicate ill health. In fact, if you have low blood pressure, statistically you have a better chance of living a longer than average life.

If you have high blood pressure, it could be caused by a number of conditions, such as kidney disease or malfunction of the adrenal glands (glands which secrete, among other hormones, one necessary to stimulate the heart). More often, though, the pressure is chronically high for reasons not yet understood—a condition we refer to as essential hypertension.

THE ANTIOCH NEWS 5
THURSDAY, DECEMBER 16, 1965

People with mild hypertension often live an average life span. However, it always represents a threat. One of the greatest dangers is that it could ultimately lead to heart failure by forcing the heart to work harder and harder, year after year. Under your doctor's guidance, however, hypertension can be fairly well controlled, primarily through diet, medication and relaxation.

Commonwealth Edison's northern division vice president congratulates Alvin Nelson, Antioch, and Wallace Grosche for their heroism in saving an 11-year-old boy from drowning.

Receive Award For Saving Boy's Life

Alvin Nelson, 575 Drom Court, Antioch, recently won Commonwealth Edison's award for life-saving action in 1965.

Nelson and Wallace Grosche, Arlington Heights, received the awards for saving an 11-year-old boy from drowning in an underground drainage sewer in Des Plaines last April.

The two men, both electric mechanics in Edison's substation construction department, were called to the scene by the boy's brother after the youngster fell into a swollen creek and was swept about 12 feet into the half-mile long flume. Nelson and Grosche plunged into the sewer, caught the boy and returned him to safety.

The Commonwealth Edison award carried with it a $500 paid-up life insurance policy.

Change In 4-H Age Requirements

A change has been made in the 4-H age requirements according to Ray T. Nicholas, Lake County Farm Adviser. The revising enables younger boys and girls to join a 4-H club.

Where previously it was required that a youth be 10 years of age by July 1, it has now been changed so that anyone who will be 9 years of age by January 1, 1966 can join a 4-H Club. The upper age limit has been changed to the effect that a youth may be a 4-H member provided he is not 19 years old by January 1.

Farm Adviser Nicholas points out that the 4-H club program is open to all youth regardless of whether they live on a farm or in a town. More information on the 4-H Club program can be obtained by calling or writing the Farm Adviser's office on the Lake County Fair Grounds, Grayslake, telephone Baldwin 3-5844.

"Garden Almanac" was produced by Lou Berninger, University of Wisconsin Horticulture specialist. The programs are filmed at the University of Wisconsin TV station.

Besides Berninger, most of the Horticulture Department staff have helped to put the educational series together.

Safety First On Holidays

With the holiday season approaching, Dr. Arthur Baker of the Lake County Health Department has again asked for the cooperation of everyone in making safety a part of their observance.

"Christmas is a happy and joyous occasion for all. Special precautions should be taken to help keep it that way," he said, and then offered some suggestions for family and home safety.

1. Be sure all toys and presents given to children are not capable of causing fire, explosion or electrical shock, do not have sharp edges, or do not contain poisonous materials such as lead paint.

2. Be sure toys which operate by electricity have the UL (Underwriter's Laboratories, Inc.) label on them.

3. Select a Christmas tree which has been treated with a fire-resistant coating, if available. Keep water around the base of any live tree at all times while in the house.

4. Use only UL approved electric lights and decorate with fireproofed or nonflammable materials.

5. Keep are decorated tree in the coolest area of the room, and away from registers, heaters, fireplaces and other heat sources.

6. Turn off tree lights whenever you leave the house, even if only for a short time.

7. Frequently check the needles of the tree around light bulbs—if they are brown, relocate the lights. When the needles begin to shed, take the tree down and dispose of it.

Dr. Baker also cautioned that weather and traffic conditions are not at their best during the holidays, and advised that when traveling, allow extra time for a safer trip.

Find Most Income Tax Returns Correct

The majority of income tax returns filed by taxpayers are accurate, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Sheldon S. Cohen, told more than 500 CPA's and tax specialists attending a 2-day tax seminar last week, sponsored by the Illinois Society of Certified Public Accountants.

Mr. Cohen explained that only between 5 and 10 percent of the 65 million taxpayers are asked to provide additional information in the audit examination because they are most likely to contain errors.

He said tax returns selected for examination have characteristics which past experience has shown warrants a closer look.

These characteristics, Mr. Cohen said, might be proportionately large deductions, size and type of business or occupation, unusual dependents and various ratios such as gross profit-net profit-bad debt reserve.

Returns are also selected for examination on both a random sampling and scientific sampling basis, he said.

All the nation's business returns, some 5 million, are now being processed through the National Computer Center at Martinsburg, West Virginia, Mr. Cohen said.

With the capability, the automatic data processing system (ADP) has given, it is no longer possible for a taxpayer to "disappear" across a state line, to obtain a refund on one tax when there is a balance due on another, to avoid detection for failure to file a return, or for failure to make timely deposits of Federal taxes.

States comprising the Revenue Service Midwest Region are in the ADP system for business returns and will be for individual returns by 1967. Mr. Cohen pointed out, however, that financial transactions made in 1966 will most likely be processed under ADP, since they will appear on returns filed in 1967.

Henry Ward Beecher once gave a beautiful definition of a smile. He said: "It is a light in the windows of the face, by which the heart signifies that it is at home and waiting."

Two secretaries were discussing a recently purchased office machine. "I know it does the work of three men," said one, "but I'd rather have the men."

A Hole In Dike

By Donald L. Repp

Once upon a time, in a little Dutch village by the Zinder Zee, there lived a young teenager. One night, on his way home from a local youth center, he discovered a small hole in the dike that protected the village. Realizing that this was not his responsibility, he rushed to the home of the Mayor, who hurriedly called a meeting of the Planning Commission for the following Wednesday night.

The members of the commission debated the serious situation at great length and finally asked for suggestions from the assembled citizens. One old man who suggested that they immediately plug the hole was hooted down as a reactionary. Eventually, it was decided that since the problem pertained to the general welfare, it should be referred to the Leader in the Capital City.

A petition was drawn up explaining the situation, asking for help, and pointing out that 90 per cent of the villagers had voted for the Leader in the last election. Everyone cheered as the petition left for the Capital and no one but the old man noticed that the hole in the dike was getting bigger.

Before long, the little village was swarming with investigators and planners, and even the local elected representatives returned from the Capital for a "first-hand" evaluation of the situation.

Almost everyone was happy. The tavern keepers were happy because the newcomers ate, drank, and spent much more freely than the local villagers—it had something to do with "expense accounts." Local businessmen were happy because they anticipated even more spending. The housewives and village loafers were happy because they now had something exciting to gossip about. Only one person was unhappy about the leak—the old man who just wished that they would plug it at once.

The small hole in the dike became progressively larger, and more and more water gushed through onto the lush, fertile ground. Soon, the salt water ruined much of the soil and many farmers were deprived of their livelihood; whereupon the village was declared a depressed area and government money and administrators poured into the town to help the now-idle men.

The farmers were thoroughly tested and interviewed to classify them for job training in one of the big cities; but after being told that they would have to move, the farmers vowed that no one could force them to move away from their friends or their village, by gum.

Finally, the government planners announced that their plans were completed and the people had nothing to fear. So much land had now been ruined that the village had been declared a disaster area and more money and jobs were on the way.

The new government aid program planned to set up bucket brigades to catch the sea water before it touched the ground and pour it back into the Zinder Zee. But when the government attempted to hire the idle farmers to work on this project, they refused, saying that it paid less money than farming, and that it was beneath their dignity to work at such menial tasks. The courts upheld their position and the farmers did nothing but sit in the sun and collect "their fair share" in government aid.

Since the sea water was now a foot deep all over the village, the planners began to talk about relocating the villagers to new government-built towns and building barracks and mess halls for young dropouts who would soon arrive to man the buckets.

Suddenly, with an awful rumble, the dike gave way, and over the roar of the on-rushing water, no one heard the old man despairingly mutter, "Why didn't I fix that leak myself when it was first discovered?"

Sequoits First Loss A 52-51 Squeaker

Antioch lost their first basketball game of the young season Friday night when Willis Klein of Grant dumped in a 15-foot jump shot in the closing seconds of an overtime to give the Bulldogs a 52 to 51 win over the Sequoits on Antioch's court.

Antioch took a 13 to 12 first quarter lead but Grant moved ahead in the second quarter and led at halftime 30 to 25. The Sequoits rallied in the third period and gained a 37 to 35 edge by the time the final stanza opened.

Maintaining their slim lead throughout most of the fourth quarter the Sequoits still led 45 to 42 with just over a minute left to play. Two free throws by Klein pulled Grant to within one point and then Mike Sterbenz canned one of two charity toss to pull the Sequoits into a two point lead.

With 11 seconds left Sam Reimers of Grant tied the score on a rebound basket putting the game into overtime. The two teams traded the lead four times before Grant finally pulled it out on Klein's basket. Tyrone Walls and Sterbenz led the scoring for the Sequoits with 17 points each while Klein and Pivonka shared honors for Grant with 13 each.

Stopped Lake Forest Saturday

Still seething over their one point loss to Grant the night before the Sequoits took it out on Lake Forest with a 61 to 37 win, on the Scouts' home court.

Lake Forest managed only 15 points for the first half while the Sequoits poured in 25, 17 of them in the first quarter. Antioch maintained their edge in the third period outpointing Lake Forest 17 to 12. Antioch dumped in 19 points in the final stanza to easily take the win.

Tom Blackman's defensive job on Lake Forest's high scoring center Warren Aldridge wrote part of the Sequoits' success. Aldridge has been scoring at the rate of 23 points a game and collecting 20 rebounds. Blackman and the Sequoits limited him to six points before he fouled out.

Tyrone Walls took scoring honors for the Sequoits with 21 points while Mark Harju led for the losers with 11.

Points In Stout Win

Bill Ozga, former Antioch High School student and basketball player, was high scorer in Stout State's first conference basketball game of the season.

Captain Ozga scored 34 points in the game against Eau Claire, to lead his teammates to an 89-70 victory. Ozga hit 15 of 29 shots from the floor and added 4 for 4 from the free throw line.

Stout remained unbeaten in their second game with Wisconsin State University. Ozga was taken out of the game in the first half because of a knee injury. He scored 11 points before the injury sidelined him.

Sequoit Malmén Have 1st Conference Loss

Antioch lost their first conference wrestling match Saturday to Grant High School 26 to 12 to make their record one and one. Only four Sequoits registered wins in the match.

Wilford Wells (95), Bruce Knutsen (103), Bruce Megle (120), and Brad Ipsen (180) all won their matches. The Sequoits' season record is now two and two including a third-place finish in the Moosheart Tournament over Thanksgiving.

Thus far the Sequoits have lost to Zion 24-23, placed third at Moosheart, defeated Crown High School and won over Round Lake 32-14. Brad Ipsen leads the Sequoits with a 3 and 0 record in the 180 pound weight class.

Other good records are Wells with 4-1, and Megle with 4 and 2. The Sequoits will meet Warren in their next match Friday night at Gurnee.

The Soph squad is rolling along with a three and one record, their only loss coming at the hands of Zion Benton. "We have a young team," said coach Bill Neuman, "and should improve as the season progresses."

Rick Fowles worked hard to bag this deer with a bow and arrow.

Hiawatha Had Rough Hunting

Rick Fowles thinks that making a living as an Indian must have been a tough job.

Rick, who lives at Indian Point, has brought home three deer since the season opened in Canada. But the first two were "duck soup" compared to that last one.

This is the first year Rick hunted anything bigger than a duck. He and his father were able to fill their deer tags while moose hunting north of Kenora, Ontario, Canada, but came home without a moose.

When the season opened in Wisconsin, Rick, his father, Charlie Holmes of Holmes Resort, and Jack Rhodes of Lake Villa were on their favorite stands in Minong, Wis., about 53 miles south of Superior. Before noon of the opening day, three tags were filled. The fourth was filled the following day.

The bow and arrow tag was not so easy. Rick traveled to Shawnow, Wis., five times before his arrow found its mark.

Rick has been working at the First State Bank of Round Lake since his graduation from Antioch High School. He is presently waiting to be called to duty with the army as a flying Warrant Officer. He has passed the written examinations and the flight physical and will probably leave for training in Louisiana during the first part of January.

Jerome Perron and Fred Young examine one of the hens on the modern, automated egg ranch on Route 173 near Richmond. Fred is a brother of one of the owners, Don Young.

They're Taking The Guess Out Of The Egg Business

Between Richmond and Antioch on Route 173, Dick Grimley and Don Young are well on their way to building the largest automated egg factory in the world.

Housing a staggering number of White Leghorn laying hens, producing an equally staggering number of eggs, everything in the long buildings operates automatically, tended by a comparatively small staff of people.

The present cluster of buildings were built at a cost of $1,000,000. About $600,000 was spent for pullets to stock the farm.

This is the age of specialization and automation, and Grimley and Young are doing both. Their sole object will be egg production—they buy their young hens at five months of age, and keep them 14 months, their peak production period. At 19 months of age the chickens are sold, to be replaced by five-month-old ones again.

The chickens are housed in buildings 335 feet long by 32 feet wide. Seven of these buildings are completed at the present time, the eighth is in the process of construction.

Work on the construction started last July. Cardinal Engineering of Rockford is doing the work on the buildings. Eight more chicken houses will be added next summer, with work starting in April.

Each building houses 5,000 wire cages in long rows of two tiers. There are 4 hens in each cage. There is little room for the birds to move around and waste their energy. There's no resemblance to the old-fashioned chicken house in these bare, sanitary buildings.

From the time the hens are put in the cages, every aspect of their surroundings is scientifically planned and controlled. Truckloads of balanced feed come from the Wayne Feed Co. in Janesville, and are unloaded mechanically into a huge storage hopper on the ground.

The feed is a mixture of foods for a balanced diet: ground, then pressed into pellets, then "crumbled", so that all elements blend together. The hens can't select tasty morsels and leave the rest—it's all the same.

From the hopper, the feed travels on belts into the hen houses. The belt runs constantly in front of the cages. Both the feed and water, automatically supplied, are outside the cage, available to the hen but where it can't be "fouled up" or spilled.

Only one thing in these houses will remind you of the chicken house of old—the smell. "The smell isn't nearly as strong as it would be without these fans," says Jerry Perron, an employee of the Wayne Feed Co., who's working with Grimley and Young, and took me on the tour of the place.

No heat is needed in these hen houses—four ventilating fans keep it cool and push in fresh air in the summer. In the winter, only one fan is used. And the body heat of 20,000 chickens keeps the temperature at 65 degrees.

A belt beneath the cages moves the droppings out of the building. Nothing is wasted—the manure is liquefied and hauled out to spread on the farmland, where it will help produce a better crop of corn next year.

Lights are on in the hen houses for 17 hours a day to stimulate production. There are no windows in the buildings. "The chickens never know whether it's day or night, summer or winter," says Perron, "so we can't have a seasonal drop in production. The eggs roll immediately from the pen and start cooling—no chance for a hen to sit on them and hasten spoiling."

A houseman tends the machinery in the hen houses, two houses to a man. "He's more a mechanic than a chicken-man," Perron says. "He keeps the machinery in working order. It takes care of the rest."

The floor of each hen house is scrubbed every day. When after 14 months, the chickens are sold, that house is left empty for a month for a thorough cleaning and sanitizing. The stock will be disposed of and replenished on a staggered system, so that one house stands vacant each month when the total building plan is completed.

"Our purpose is to produce the highest quality eggs," says Dick Grimley, one of the owners. And from feeding the hen to the time the egg reaches market, every operation is aimed at an excellent, uniform egg.

The floor of the cage is slanted so that when the hen lays an egg, it rolls gently down through a slot in the end of the cage, onto a belt. The belt moves continuously, and the eggs ride down the belt into a tube. Before it reaches the tube, a small mechanism counts it and adds it to the total. Thus the owner has a constant record of how many eggs each row of cages is producing.

It means that somewhere along the route the shells are being bumped.

From the candling belt, the eggs move on to the sorting belt. Each egg is weighed here, and automatically sorted to size. The eggs come out on a table, and they're handpacked in cartons.

The cartons move through the closer, where the cartons are closed. Then out on to a table where girls pack them in 30-dozen cartons after stamping them with a code that gives the plant number and date.

Now they're ready to be loaded into a truck and taken to Chicago. All these eggs go to one market, a chain store in Chicago.

A government inspector, Marlene Williamson, is on duty every day at the farm, checking the quality and size of the eggs.

A staff of nineteen workers is maintained at the egg farm, plus two housemen and a truck driver.

The hens are now producing eggs at 80% of capacity, a high peak. It is expected that they'll average 68% production year-round.

At 68% of production, with seven houses working, Grimley and Young will be producing 95,200 eggs a day.

Young has been in the egg business for 18 years. The farm on which the chicken business is located belonged to Grimley.

The machinery in this super-modern plant is manufactured by the Kilsen Co. It is designed to take as much of the gamble as possible out of the egg business. No risk from the vagaries of weather, strict cleanliness to safeguard against disease, artificial daylight and a strict diet to stimulate egg production.

Grandma would need a big sugar bowl for the "egg money" from this modern business.
